

CO|HO Seating

CO|HO facilitates interaction throughout work environments

As companies seek to better leverage two of their key assets - people and space - they look to create environments where individuals and small groups can meet and interact. Increasing evidence to support the rewards brought about by group interaction, the ubiquity of mobile devices and the design of workspaces which promote collaborative activity are all essential characteristics which have led to the development of the new range of CO|HO tables and chairs.

The CO|HO family of seating with its collaborative feature set responds to the growing need for informal destinations where teams can set up, access, connect and comfortably collaborate with ease. With its minimal design aesthetic, the new range of CO|HO seating can be easily incorporated in a variety of workplace environments, so as to inspire people to leave the confinement of their individual office space to meet and collaborate.

